CONVERSATION.

Conversation is but carving:
Give no more to every guest
Than he is able to direct:
Give him always of the prime,
And but little at a time;
Give to all but just enough,

The Cost of Dress.

Elegance does not consist in reluces of material and trimming. fortunately: it resides in the cut, fit and reneral style of the costume, its appropriateness to the occasion upon which it is worn and the way the wearer carries it. It is betan to save on the expense of sterious and pay more for the making. A well-smade gown is a thing of beauty, and it made one, which vexes its owner and makes her feel unconfortable every time she puts it on. Very pretty gowns are to be had ready made now. They require refitting, of course, but that does not cost a great deal in addition, and will be well done by the establishment which sells the gowns. There is, of course, the objection to be made that ready-made gowns are constructed by the wholesale, ever so many just alike, but the purchaser can always change hers and give it a look of originality by put.

"Then you haven't become interested in any of the reform movements?"

"No. I don't consider myself capable of taking up and discussing those things."

"Do you take much interest in science and are you in the habit of discussing the beauties of classical music, using technical terms, or are you an amateur literary critic, or do you ever talk to people about the great moral problems that are claiming the attention of so many of our learned women nowadays?"

"No. I am ashamed to have to confess it, but I have found it impossible to get any of those things through my head sufficiently to dare to talk about them."

Helen's Rare Compos. Melen's Kare Compos.

When Helen at the chafing dish
Presided with bewitching grace,
It seemed as though my dearest wish
Would have the girt in such a place.
Enthroned she was as any queen.
An air domestic lent its charm,
So fair a face was never seen—
Or, when she "stirred," so fair an arm,
